TENNESSEE OUGHT to be up to snuff. She expends a million of money annually in providing her inhabitants with sneezes.

THE END OF THE WORLD is again advertised to take place on Saturday of this week. Gentlemen who went into Confederate bonds should make haste to unload. A PENNSYLVANIA JUDGE has pronounced in the community that carry concealed reapons. Cowards constitute one and villains the other. ONE COUNTY in Kentucky has been enlivened by five murders in less than two ployees of the office.

months. The inhabitants do not require a circus or even an original American drama to give them a sensation. HADLEY, in Saratoga County, New York must be a peculiar town. It has furnished

THE PRINCE OF WALES has made a litt.

Here dining with a Welshman he called for a tankard of Welsh ale and drank to the memory of his own great Tudor ancest.

In the name of the 700 ladies mentioned the memory of his own great Tudor ances tors, Llewellyn the Great and Cadwalls. This hit of the Prince will be a "strike for the brewers.

IN THE NEW EDITION of Walt. Whitman's poems he is still represented to the that astounded the world with the "Leaves of Grass." He should have given a more recent portrait, showing himself in his much-improved aspect as a harmony in gray and white.

It appears that Tammany is still a subscript of the street of the rather lively and troublesome corpse. Of the New York County ticket, Tammany gets it surrogate, its Coroner, and three civil Justices. On actual votes cast they ran ahead of the regular county Democracy. Uncle S. J. T. had better be slow about closing his candy shop against John Kelly

THE Boston Past celebrated its fiftleth birthday on November 10, and, among other festivities, indulged in a stupendous account of the political history covering that period and the Post's connection therewith. The Post is one of the soundest, ablest and brightest papers in the country, and its admirers will cordially wish it as many birthdays as Methusalch.

A CERTAIN Mrs. Aldrich, out in Iowa, of Republican but strong temperance pro-clivities, has just said: "We temperance people propose to rule or ruin the Republican party, and we would rather see their ticket defeated than have their representatives elected who are not in favor of the prohibitory amendment." Mrs. Aldrich evidently means business. We are not informed of her age or ambition, but cold water apostles who want to ride into political horse and the transfer and the states are the correspondent with the property of the content of th cal honors on the above platform in Iowa had better commence early on the morning of the day they receive the notice, because it will probably take several hundred years to thaw out the 50,000 Republican majority in that section of the world.

The Cincinnati Gazette blew a loud fog-horn five months ago. It now crawls out of the small end of the same horn, as fol-lows:

The stranded condition of the Star-route cases at this time is in sad contrast to the high water when they were launched. Then the New York San correspondent was engaged by Postmaster-General James and Attorney-General VacVeagh as an annateur detective, to work up the cases, for the reason that he had nosed them for a newspaper sensation. A singular feature was that he had been notorious as a villifler of President Garfield, in relation to the Credit Mobilier and Peciolyer pavement. This gave him a back-action indorsement. Then Cook was engaged to be assistant counsel because he was reported as an adept in all the crooked ways of procuring verdicts. All this tended to give the prosecution a character. And then it appears the cases were pretty much allowed to take care of themselves. The stranded condition of the Star-route

IT SEEMS that the Greenbackers, so we have been privately informed, will be here in force in a few days. In their estimate of 146 for the Republican strength in the organization includes Hyatt Smith, of HARD WOODS, Brooklyn, elected by Greenback votes, but already ranked by his own party friends as a Republican supporter on all matters per taining to organization. This leaves them nine in the clear, the most prominent being Ladd, of Maine, of strong Democratic proclivities and antecedents. They expect to be able to hold them all in line and dictate the Speaker. They scout at the idea of Kasson or Hiscock, but apparently have one ear open to propositions from Judge Kelley and the other to the loving appeals

Things are getting entirely too close for comfort. For instance, Williams, of Indiana, counted among the Republican 146, is pros trated at home with inflammation of the bowels, and the probabilities are largely against his being present. Should the Democrats capture the Greenback entire strength of 9, it would give them simply 146, one less than required to elect, and the curious spectacle would then be presented of a troublesome dead-lock, neither side being able to budge a peg. This manifest impossi-bility for the Democrats to elect, even with the full Greenback support, will make the Greenbackers the Warwicks of the hour able to lean back in their autocratic chairs and dictate to the Republicans both the man and the spoils. That seems to be the situation at present. Ties are becoming fashionable in all parts of the country. What their practical working may prove to be remains to be tried With substantial ties in both Senate and House, and ties in a number of the branches of State Legislatures, it can be remarked that a good deal of close attention to bus iness for some time to come on the part of our public solons may be expected. Heavy majorities allow of too much legislating in ante-rooms and adjoining restaurants.

THE VENERABLE PUR PUNC., John D. Defrees, comes out in the Madison (Ind.) eler with the following card

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC PRINTER,
WASHINGTON, D. C. NOV. S. 1881.
My DEAN SIR: I thank you for your notice of the infimous and malignant libel upon the ladies employed in this office. There are over 700 of them, and they will compare favorably with an equal number of employees anywhere. Many of them have been well raised and educated, but are compelled to labor for their daily bread, It is an infernal shame that they should be traduced by a low grade scoundred in the vain hope of injuring me. There never has been a charge ma e against the management of this office that did not originate with some dead beat that was discharged from it.

In addition to the other accomplishments of Defrees, we notice traits of the artful dodger. He gives away the whole case in trying to basely insinuate that any charges have been made against the ladies employed in his office. He knows in his heart that this is a wanton falsehood, and the wonder is that it didn'tstick in his throat. The charges made have affected nothing but the moral conduct of the foreman of his establishment and Defrees' own responsithe opinion that there are only two classes bility for retaining such a character in power. The nature of one of the charges is that this same foreman exhibited obscene and indecent pictures to the female em-

When THE CRITIC prefers this charge, and demands, in the name of decency, that it be investigated for the good name and protection of the lady employees, Defrees replies by twisting our language into a slauder on his lady employees. The baby-act one of its inhabitants the opportunity of has never been pleaded with a more appa-

So far as charges being preferred by deadping at his neighbor's door in the dead of beats is concerned, no person of sense will treat such a defense with respect, for it is notorious that there are more dead-beats we demand and defy him to meet our charge. Is this plain enough for his limited undertanding?

Her Name at Home.

Sarah Bernhardt (did you know her real name, the name by which she is entered on the registers of the conservatory, is Rosine Bernhardt?) has been engaged for six performances at the Barcelona Theatre. She gets $1,400 each performance. This engagement iniffiled, she goes to Vienna, where she will give ten performances. She will have twenty-nine actors with her, will play at the Ring Theatre, and get $2,000 for each performance.

New Business in Hamlet.

Peck's Sun.

Edwin Booth has introduced new "business" into Hamlet. We are glad of it. We trust he will so improve the play that a man won't feel like a faneral procession two weeks after he sees it. A little acrobatic song and dance, with local "gags," is the great need of "Hamlet" in order to give it relish to the average play-goer.

The Disagreeable MacVengh.

Ben: Pericy Poore.

The remaining members of the Garfield Cabinet are probably not sorry that Mr. MacVeigh has left them, for he has managed to make himself very disagreeable to some of them, and had he not resigned there would have been an open rapture.

The Private's Revenge.

Political Economy.

Hen Butler says that the cheapest way to get rid off one's worthless friends is to disagree with them on finance. This must be a cruel reference to the man who borrowed three dollars.

Grandpa John.

A Very Small Man.

In view of Col. Corkhill's uncontradicted statement, Mr. MacVeagh certainly figures exceedingly small, not only as a reformer, but as a man.
